Overview

Emalie Rott is a trial lawyer whose state and federal litigation practice encompasses a broad range of disputes, including complex business and commercial litigation, products liability defense, insurance defense, and family law. Her practice encompasses all forms of business-related litigation, as well as the representation of both private and publicly held businesses, including leading manufacturers and distributors of consumer, commercial, and medical products in product liability actions and insurance disputes. A portion of her practice is devoted to representing individuals in domestic family law matters.

Emalie graduated with highest honors from the University of Tulsa College of Law in 2018. She served as articles research editor of the Tulsa Law Review and as executive director of the Board of Advocates, was named to the Order of the Curule Chair and Order of the Barristers, and earned five CALI Excellence for the Future Awards. While pursuing her Juris Doctor, Emalie served as a judicial intern for The Honorable Gregory Frizzell of the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Oklahoma. She also interned for Barrister William Ryan, a prominent intellectual property barrister, in Dublin, Ireland, while attending the University of Tulsa College of Law's study abroad program with University College of Dublin.

Prior to entering law school, the Tulsa native earned her bachelor's degree from Williams College in Williamstown, MA, where she was a left-handed pitcher for the varsity fast-pitch softball team and a member of the Williams College Accidentals A Capella Group.
